THE NEW SILVER BILL.

ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY OF THE PURCHASE OF $4,500,000 PER MONTH.

Moving Troops—San Francisco's Population—News from all Sections.

The Silver Fight.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—In the House, on the discussion of the McKinley Silver resolution, Springer, of Illinois, said the Democratic House had passed a free coinage bill. The Senate limited it and the House was obliged to accept the limitation. It had been vetoed by Hayes and was passed over his veto. He denounced the resolution as an attempt to prevent the representatives of the people from carrying out their will.

McKinley said the resolution was intended to give the House an opportunity to pass a bill which would take all the silver bullion of the United States and utilize it for monetary purposes. It was to give the people not $2,000,000 a month, but $4,500,000. The gentlemen on the other side could not have been very anxious for free coinage when, for four years, they never even brought in a bill from their committee. The talk about throttling the will of the minority, why one man in the White House had silenced the majority in the 49th and 50th Congress.

The resolution was adopted, yeas 120, nays 117. Among the Republicans who voted in the negative were Bartine, Morrow and Hermann. Blount, of Georgia, moved a reconsideration. McKinley moved to lay this on the table. Agreed to—yeas 124, nays 118.

Silver in the Senate.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Sherman followed Hancock on the Silver bill and made a long address. He believed that treasury notes, based on silver bullion, would be as safe a substitute for paper money as could be conceived. That was far preferable to free coinage of silver, because, with all the efforts made to get silver dollars into circulation, there was not one of them in circulation for every inhabitant. He said the result of free coinage would be to demonstrate gold and cause gold to be hoarded or exported. The free coinage of silver would limit coinage to the single metal and assure as fast silver would (with free coinage) be the only standard of money in the United States. Sherman said he would vote for any measure that would, in his judgment, secure and maintain a bi-metallic standard.

Teller followed Sherman, and asserted that Sherman was in favor of the abandonment of silver as a money metal, leaving it to be used only as a subsidiary coin. Stewart gave, from his point of view, a resume of the legislative proceedings which resulted in the demonetization of the silver dollar in 1873. He declared that the amendment that demonetized silver was never read in either House. Sherman produced the original bill of 1873 to show that the amendment was read and voted on in the Senate and when the Conference Committee considered the disputed section it was again amended in the conference. Stewart persisted in the assertion that the amendment had not been read and argued.

Aldrich said that not only had Stewart voted on the amendment but he had actually spoken about two sections of the bill. The Senate adjourned without action on the Silver bill.

Featherstone and Vandever, who voted with the Democrats on the first question, voted with the Republicans on the motion to table. The bill having been read Conger offered the caucus bill as a substitute. Conger, of Iowa, spoke in favor of free coinage and said the pending bill, while not entirely satisfactory to himself, was a long step in the direction of free coinage. Williams, of Illinois, spoke in favor of free coinage of silver. He had some curiosity to see whether those members on the other side who represented constituencies in favor of free coinage had a greater devotion for their people than for the Secretary of the Treasury and his administration.

Taylor, of Illinois, spoke in favor of the bill and Latham, of Texas, opposed it. Pending further debate the House adjourned.

All the Same American Hog. Special to the Journal.

LONDON, May 5.—A deputation from Scotland visited Chaplin, Minister of Agriculture, to-day, and asked him to modify the restriction against the importation of American cattle. The chief arguments in support of their request was the scarcity of store cattle in Great Britain and the absence of pleuro pneumonia on American. Chaplin said the bulk of the farmers of Great Britain favored the restriction, and he was unable to hold out the slightest hope of any modification of the present regulations governing the importation of cattle, even if cattle in America were entirely free from disease.

San Francisco's Census. Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Census Supervisor Davis estimates the population of this city at 355,000, with the Chinese population at 20,000. The enumerators he thinks will return only 15,000 Chinese as a great many are now out of town, working on farms and orchards.

Alaskan Expedition.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—The Alaskan expedition, under the auspices of the National Geographical Society, is an assumed fact. M. B. Kerr, Topographer and Manager of the expedition has arrived from Washington and will take the steamer sailing June 14th. H. Russell, the geologist of the expedition, is now in Seattle. The study of the glaciers of Mount St. Elias will be made and they will also attempt to ascend to the summit of the peak, a feat never yet accomplished. The expedition will also penetrate far inland.

Special to the Journal.

GREENVILLE, Cal., June 5.—The last breaks in the telegraph line between here and Sierra City, were repaired to-day. Nevada Troops.

Special to the Journal.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 5.—Lieutenant D. L. Brainard, Second Cavalry, arrived here this afternoon from Reno, Nevada, with the horses of his troop from Ft. Bidwell, Cal., intended for troop E, Fourth Cavalry, ordered to take station at Vancouver Barracks.

"The Chinese Must Go."

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Fifteen more Chinese, who were remanded by the Court Commissioners in Los Angeles, arrived in this city to-day and were sent to the Alameda county jail to await the sailing of the next steamer for China. They were caught trying to enter the United States over the Mexican border.

THE UNION PACIFIC.

What is Said in Salt Lake Concerning Extensions.

The San Francisco Bulletin says:

There is great activity in all the Western country into which the railroads from the East have entered. Lines are being extended in every direction, and new ones are projected. The invaded country is growing rapidly, and the business of the different roads is increasing. Among the most active of these great roads is the Union Pacific. It is, as it promised, "making the dirt fly" in Washington, having entered into a race with the Northern Pacific for a terminus at Olympia. It is also pushing a branch southwesterly from Salt Lake through Utah and Nevada to a connection with the Atlantic and Pacific in Southern California. But, according to the Salt Lake papers, this is not the only branch which the Union Pacific is likely to build from Salt Lake. Westward from that city there lies in Nevada, south of the line of the Central Pacific, one of the richest mineral regions of the country. Its great need is railroad communications so that its ores can be carried to the smelters. Salt Lake wants this business, which would add greatly to its prosperity and wealth and make it one of the busiest cities west of the Missouri river. It believes that this region will soon be opened up by a new railroad, which has been surveyed through the Nevada mineral belt to Reno, and thence through Beckwith Pass to the Sacramento valley by way of the Feather river. The Salt Lake Tribune states that work on this line will probably be commenced in a few days.

In an editorial article the paper above mentioned says, speaking of the neglect of the Central Pacific Company to secure the Oregon trade by a line like that built by the Union Pacific says:

"Now they are out off at the north. In a little while more they will be out off at the south, and the Central Pacific will be simply a streak of rusty iron from Ogden to Reno. The road passes through Nevada off the line of the great mineral deposits. A natural business instinct, it seems to us, would long ago have induced that company to see if their traffic could not be doubled or quadrupled by extending short lateral branches into the State that for a long time was the great mineral producer, and which will be again as soon as reasonable railroad facilities are given to the people. We think the road will start from this city west to the next few days. When it does it will not astonish us at all if the Central Pacific Company goes to some point on their line, say Humboldt Wells or Tacoma, and, with all their facilities for working fast, commence a rapid rushing of a line through direct to this city."

It was in the hands of the owners of the Central Pacific to make their most valuable property on the Continent. They continue to decline, and if they proceed in their programme, by this time three years hence there will be a shorter line, over better grades, through a richer country, driven from the city to San Francisco, with a branch to Los Angeles, and all that road will only cost above $17,000,000. After the first 200 miles of it shall have been completed the men who hold the money bags in the East will be anxious to buy the bonds which will not only complete the road, but pay to the projectors about $10,000 a mile profit."

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-swly

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

HOW OUR GRANDPARENTS LIVED, WORKED AND DRESSED.

Fashions Did Not Change in Those Days—So Often as They Do Now—When the Women Really Made Their Own Clothes. Henry Clay's Jeans Breaches.

The costume of the pioneer belle was not elaborate, and when she left the parental cabin for a home of her own no Saratoga trunks were required for her wardrobe. She wore the larger portion of it. In later years we read that Henry Clay used to drive to Washington city in his family carriage with his wife and daughter, and take their wardrobe with them for a winter's stay at the national capital. Now the luggage of such a party would half fill a baggage car.

In this day of diversified industry, when one labor saving invention crowds another off the stage in endless and rapid succession, one can scarcely comprehend the patient, persevering effort required of the pioneer housewife in the discharge of the ordinary duties of the cabin. The lack of costly furniture, handsome carpets, fragile bric-a-brac and expensive hangings did not lessen her care. She was both mistress and servant, matron and nurse, housekeeper and charwoman, dairymaid and cook. Neatness was not less demanded of her than of the modern housewife, and her split broom and scrub brush found ample service in keeping floor and furniture clean and white.

DIVIDED LABOR.

The labor was pretty well divided between the sexes. "The men," the early writers tell us, "haunted and brought in the meat; they planted, plowed and gathered the corn, grinding it into meal at a hand mill or pounding it into hominy in the mortar, which was occasionally the work of either or the joint labor of both." But with these offices the labor of the women was scarcely begun. Custom and necessity united to lay upon her the care of providing for every household need that the rude agriculture of the period did not supply, and in all the multifarious duties which engaged her skill and energy she labored unaided by labor saving machinery. And so she milked the cows in all weather, while sturdy men and boys watched an operation too effeminate to enlist their services. She churned the butter, carried the tubs to a spring a quarter or half mile from the cabin, or caught rain water in troughs and barrels from the eaves for the "washing" made her own soap; washed, picked, carded and dyed the wool; pulled, broke and hackled the flax; spun the thread and wove the cloth; contrived and made the garments; reared her children, nursed the sick, sympathized with the distressed, and encouraged the disheartened laborer at her side. In all this, and above it all, woman was the tutelary saint of the frontier.

The first cloth made in Kentucky was in 1775, by the wife of William Boone, who that year joined the settlement at Harrodsburg. She brought with her the first spinning wheel ever seen west of the mountains, and she spun thread from the lint of the cotton, which grew abundantly in the new country, and upon a rude loom contrived by her husband she worked it into cloth. This she called linen, but by adding a "filing" spun from buffalo wool she made a cloth she called lusey woolsey. Considerable of such cloth was made here before the introduction of sheep, and before the people began to cultivate flax and hemp.

These are no fancy sketches drawn from a romantic imagination, but true of pioneer life, and the world is not half a century older since much of that described above could be daily witnessed in Kentucky.

A DUEL OVER JEANS.

The spinning wheel, the loom and the reel have disappeared, except as relics. (It is fashionable now to have our grandmothers' old wheels, bedecked with ribbons and gewgaws, conspicuously displayed in our parlors and libraries.) A suit of country brown jeans is never seen now, except when the revenue officers bring in a squad of moonshiners from the mountains. But following the period of buckskin breeches every man wore home made jeans and linens. I have seen the late Governor John L. Helm on public occasions, where he took a conspicuous part, dressed in a suit of jeans.

The celebrated duel between Henry Clay and Humphrey Marshall in 1807 grew out of Marshall's sarcastic criticism of Clay for wearing jeans clothes. Marshall was an aristocrat socially and a federalist politically. He believed Clay's republican ideas and plebeian tastes affected to give him prestige with the people, and he gave his "stinging pen and bitter tongue" full swing at him, until Clay could no longer endure his biting sarcasm, and he challenged him. The result of the duel was nothing more serious, said Col. Sam Major, writing of the affair, than "a slight wound to Mr. Clay's jeans breeches inflicted by Marshall's Manton."

One of the early writers, describing the times in the first quarter of the present century, says: "Fashionable young men wore tight bodied, swallow tailed coats, with large, high collars, buff or white vests, stockinet pants, high top boots, wrinkled or fur, with a tassel in front, high short collars reaching to the ears, and a few wore ruffles. Gold watches were uncommon, but a bull's eye with a metallic bow chain, seal and key was usually sported. The fashions didn't change then as often as they do now. The same bonnet or hat was worn for years. Men wore their hats eight or ten years, and yet, not half worn out, would barter them to the hatter in part pay for a new one of the latest style."

"The same bonnet was worn as long, the trimming perhaps changed every two or three years. Calico was the prevailing material for ladies' fine dresses, such as were worn in making calls, attending religious meetings or evening parties. The more elderly wore bombazine. Six yards were amply sufficient for a pattern. An article called homespun wool, or cotton and wool, was usually worn about the house when engaged in ordinary domestic duties. There were social parties in those days, but there was some regard paid to proper hours for meeting and dispersing. The company assembled at early candle lighting and went home at reasonable bedtime, and had no ice cream or oyster suppers."—W. H. Ferrine in Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Benign Witchery of Candle Light.

There are so many women who have passed their first youth who appear at the balls in New York and receive the devoted attention of men for whom they must entertain a most grandmotherly interest, that the question of light has become a most important one, so these foxy caterers to the female complexion have taken a leaf out of French books and lighted their rooms with candles, the silver candleholders being set in the walls so that the light falls from the side, not above, while pretty little fluted petticoats of rose silk shade the colored candles. A side light, especially if it is rose tinted, takes ten years from a woman's age. No wonder, we are in favor of abolishing the deadly electric lamps and the flaming gas, if wax candles are such thieves of time.—Hartford Courant.

SUSANVILLE AND RENO.

Direct Telegraphic Communication With Reno, Nevada.

The JOURNAL excerpts the following from the last Susanville Advocate:

We learn, from good authority, that the Western Union Telegraph Company contemplate building a telegraph line this Summer, direct from Reno to Susanville, along the line of the Nevada & California railroad. This line will bring into direct connection the lines of the California and Oregon Telegraph Company, which now extend from Susanville to Alturas, a distance of 112 miles. At present the W. U. lines run from Sacramento to Greenville, Cal., where all connections with the northern part of the State are made. The line is built through a mountainous country and in winter it is an impossibility to keep it up, on account of the great depth of snow. From what we now learn it is the intention of the Western Union Company to take down the wire from Plumas Eureka Mine to Sierra City, and connect the former place with Reno by way of Susanville. The route from Reno via Susanville, Greenville, Taylorville and Quincy to Plumas Eureka Mine is the most practicable that could be found. The line could be kept up the entire year at comparatively no expense; also giving Plumas county and the entire northern portion of California quicker and more direct communication with the outside world.

The building of this line will be a good investment for the company, for this portion of California is fast coming into prominence, and it will be but a very short time until the business will be as large as over any of the company's lines. It had been the intention of the California & Oregon Telegraph Company to build a line to Reno this Summer, but if the W. U. Company will build it the C. & O. Company will give way to them, as it is the latter company's desire to extend further into Oregon, and no further south. The fact that this local company has had in view the building of a line to Reno, shows conclusively that it would be a paying investment, for all the members of said company are old residents of this section, and are fully conversant with the importance and practicability of a direct line to Reno. It is to be hoped that the W. U. Telegraph Company will commence work on the line at once, as we are virtually cut off at present from the outside world.

E. P. Butler, the photographer, has reduced the price of cabinet photographs to $3. per dozen and other sizes in proportion.

D. H. Wheeler, business manager of "A Pair of Jacks," was in town last evening. Reno will have the Jacks next Thursday night.

Rev. Mr. Rankin, of the School for Girls, left for the East yesterday, having been called there by the serious illness of a daughter.

The Grand Lodge of F. & A. M. meets in Masonic Hall, Carson, next Monday. The Grand Chapter, R. A. M., convenes on Tuesday, in the same place.

The U. S. Circuit Court will be in session at Carson on July 7th, and either Judge Sawyer will preside personally or make arrangements for some other Judge.

Mr. Fowling will soon leave Reno to attend the Supreme Lodge session of the Knights of Pythias, at Milwaukee. If you want a town lot in the Addition now is the time to see about it.

The First National Bank is about to commence the work of laying a cement sidewalk on the Second street side of the bank building. It will be the first in Reno, and when others see it, the JOURNAL expects to see the new style generally introduced in Reno.

Superintendent Sharon of the Executive Committee of the Comstock Pumping Association, states he is of the opinion that the draining of the Gold Hill mines down to the 2000 level will be accomplished in 60 days after the pumps are started. The work of draining the Crown Point and Belcher down to the 1700 level, where large ore reserves are located, will not require above two weeks. Mr. Sharon expects to have the pumps in full operation by July 1.

A Reliable Publication.

The Railroad Gazette published by H. S. Crocker & Co., of San Francisco, is one of the best, and only reliable book of the kind on the Pacific Coast. It has the endorsement of all railway officials and its circulation now reaches 11,000 monthly. Mr. Waldron is now in Reno writing up, and compiling a two-page article on our city and country.

They Stand In.

A Sale.

Geo. Schaefer yesterday bought the McIntosh residence, corner Nevada and Fourth streets, and the barn property, on the corner of Fourth and Ralston. The price paid was $5,650.

Payable in Silver.

The Silver State says:

Citizens of Nevada now give and accept notes of hand payable in silver, as an evidence of the faith that is in them.

Haworth as "Paul Kaurar."

Mr. Haworth who will be seen here as "Paul Kaurar," to-morrow night, is one of the young actors of the present day who has won his way by the strength of his own merit. He has always worked faithfully to improve in the art which he loves so well. He speaks several languages fluently, is a composer of ability and has written many beautiful verses. Two of Mr. Haworth's compositions will be played by the orchestra during his coming engagement in this city. One is entitled, "Mary's Dream" and is dedicated to the memory of the late Mary Fiske, the authoress of the famous "Giddy Gusher" papers. The second number is entitled "To Sothorn" and is dedicated to his friend, E. H. Sothorn. Mr. Haworth has made many successes in his career, but none of them equal the success he has made in "Paul Kaurar." He created the part upon its first production in New York, at the Standard Theater. His fine work in the title role did much to win success and a long run for the play. The play had a continuous run for nearly two hundred nights in New York and during the greater part of the engagement it was necessary to obtain seats several days in advance. From New York Mr. Haworth played a Summer engagement of six weeks at Hooley's Theater and during the entire engagement it was impossible to obtain a seat any night five minutes before the rise of the curtain. This has been the rule everywhere. Mr. Haworth's recent engagement in San Francisco was a grand success. He received a series of ovations and several nights during the first week the standing room sign was displayed in front of the theater. For the season of the coast new scenery, handsome costumes and effects have been prepared. No expense will be spared to make the production worthy of the star and play. Mr. Haworth has in his support a fine company of players. They are headed by Miss Lizzie Rechelle and include Miss Lavinia White, Miss Mary Timberman, Mark Lynch, Joseph Ransome, Murry Wends, Robert W. Drouet, George Conway, M. J. Fenton, C. E. Boardman and others. The engagement of the brilliant actor is a brief one and seats should be secured well in advance.

Crown Point.

At the annual meeting of the Crown Point Mining Company shareholders, held in San Francisco June 3, 81,281 shares were represented. The following Directors were elected: A. K. P. Harmon, J. H. Dobinson, J. P. Martin, William Norris and C. L. McCoy. C. L. McCoy was elected President, A. K. P. Harmon Vice President, James Newlands Secretary, Samuel L. Jones, Superintendent and the Bank of California Treasurer. The company has an overdraft of $9,311 68, but it is officially stated that there is no immediate danger of an assessment. Superintendent Jones, in his annual report, stated that the draining of the flooded levels of the mine will begin at an early date.

Free Coinage Convention.

The Austin Reveille says: J. R. Williamson, Lander's delegate to the Silver Convention at Carson, returned on Saturday's train. Mr. Williamson tells us that there was a large and enthusiastic gathering of Nevada's chief citizens, and that a set of ringing resolutions was adopted in favor of the free coinage of silver. He believes the influence of the convention will be widely felt. On Saturday's exchanges did not contain the doings of the convention, so we shall not be able to give the resolutions in the columns of the Reveille before Wednesday.

Good Crops and Plenty Feed.

The Silver State says: County Assessor Riley, who is now on his annual round, reports good feed on the Little Humboldt, Quinn river valley, and in fact, throughout northern Humboldt. The grain and hay crops in Paradise valley look well. The hay crop will be unusually heavy and some ranchers will start their mowers as soon as the ground is dry enough, probably in a week or ten days. Farm hands will soon be in demand in the valley.

An Inviting Rural Resort.

Since Mr. John Murphy succeeded to the proprietorship of Steamboat Springs he has added many improvements to the baths and surroundings. Aside from the health renewing properties of its waters, Steamboat Springs is the most inviting rural resort in the State. The charges are reasonable and the hotel and cottage accommodations unexcelled.

El Rio Rey.

A St. Louis dispatch, of the 3d, reads as follows:

El Rio Rey, the great chestnut colt, arrived here from Nashville to-day. The owner, Theodore Winters, reports him in good shape, notwithstanding all the reports to the contrary. Barring accidents he will start in the St. Louis Derby, on Saturday.

What Did He Buy?

A Louisville paper, of recent date, has this:

Mr. J. J. Grant, of Reno, Nevada, a near relative of Gen. U. S. Grant, and a prominent citizen and capitalist of the Pacific slope, was a conspicuous bidder at the sale.

A merchant at Randolph, Ala., deceased Sunday night that he would die suddenly at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon. On Monday morning he selected a coffin, made his will and spent the day in prayer. At 4 o'clock he seated himself in a rocking chair and in three minutes was dead. The doctors say death was caused by heart disease.

The Bashaw of Tangier has become so corpulent that he is unable to walk abroad. He is only five feet two inches in height and must be the same in breadth, as he weighs over 400 pounds. He has been advised by his thirty-two physicians to fast for a month, but he says he will see them bow-strung first.

The U. S. District Judgeship.

The Belmont Courier remarks: The many friends of District Judge R. B. Bigelow, of this State, have requested our Congressional delegation to see President Harrison regarding the appointment of a new United States District Judge for Nevada, and to recommend Judge Bigelow for the place. Judge Bigelow is an upright man and an able jurist, and would fill the important office of United States District Judge satisfactorily. The members of the Bar in this State speak well of him and they all admit that he is making an excellent District Judge. He also enjoys the esteem and confidence of the people, irrespective of party, and his elevation to this judicial place would please the citizens of Nevada. The Belmont Courier hopes that Judge Bigelow will receive the appointment.

Wieland's Beer Beer.

Wieland's beer runs ahead of all others in Nevada. Everybody calls for it, and nearly every first-class house keeps it. Wieland's beer, Wieland's in kegs or bottled. Wieland's responds to the public clamorous demand, and even the Salvation Army considers it superior to Adam's ale as a substantial popular beverage. Adolf Ball, the Wieland Company's agent for the State of Nevada, can be found at his headquarters and bottling-house in Reno, personally or by letter, and offers favorable terms to the wholesale trade.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—sarsaparilla is the only medicine of its kind which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla in its medicinal merits. Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name" at home, there is now sold in Lowell, where than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, has no other preparation ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. $1.50 for 60. Prepared only by C. L. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar.
